Response to Amendment

This is in response to an amendment file on November 14th, 2003 for letter for patent filed on March 12th, 2001 in which claims 1-4 were presented for examination. In the amendment, claims 1-4 have been amended, no claim has been canceled, and claims 5-15 have been added. Claims 1-15 are pending in the letter.

Response to Arguments

1. Applicant's arguments with respect to claims 1-15 have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

2. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

3. Claims 1-15 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Skog et al (U.S. PG Pub 2001/0028636) in view of Grady et al (U.S. Patent No. 5,802,283).
4. As per claims 1, 6 and 11, Skog et al teach a method for assigning unique identifiers for allowing communication between a GPRS (General Packet Radio Service) system (radio network, 55) and a RADIUS (Remote Authentication Dial In User Service) server (radius server,

Art Unit: 3621

60), including connecting one or more external networks (mobile terminal, 45) to the GPRS system and identifying the each network with an APN (Access Point Name) (IP address), and assigning to an or each APN external network a gateway address (MSISDN number) (see fig 1, 2, paragraph 0006, 0010), passing (transmitting) an APN-external network authentication request (authentication information) from a GGSN (Gateway GPRS Support Node) to the RADIUS server (see paragraphs 0023, 0024), providing from the RADIUS server to the GGSN upon such request a subscriber IP (Internet Protocol) address to be stored in the GGSN (Gateway GPRS Support Node) (see paragraphs 0022), the subscriber IP address being unique for the respective APN external network defined in the GGSN (paragraphs 0022),. Skog et al fail to teach an inventive concept of using the GGSN for combining the APN gateway address and the subscriber IP address, to form a unique subscriber identifier. However, Grady et al teach an inventive concept of combining the APN gateway address and the subscriber IP address, to form a unique subscriber identifier and sending from the GGSN the identifier to the RADIUS server for accounting, (see column 4 lines 39-61). Therefore, it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in that art at the invention was made to modify the inventive concept of Skog et al and Grady et al to include an inventive concept of combining the APN gateway address and the subscriber IP address, to form a unique subscriber identifier and sending from the GGSN the identifier to the RADIUS server for accounting because this would have facilitated the establishment of communication in order for the user to interact with the system.

Art Unit: 3621

5. As per claim 2, 7 and 12, Skog et al teach a method wherein two or more of the APN external networks are provided with same subscriber IP address, but different gateway addresses to yield different unique APN identifiers (paragraphs 0022, 0024, 0026).

6. As per claim 3, 8 and 13, Skog et al teach a method wherein two or more subscribers are present in at least one of the networks, each subscriber in a common network being provided with its own subscriber IP address, but same network gateway address (paragraphs 0022, 0024, 0026).

7. As per claim 4, 5, 9, 10,14 and 15, Skog et al teach a method wherein the identifier is a code/ASCII string having as a first element the gateway address of the APN external network in question and as a second element the subscriber IP address appended thereto (paragraphs 0022, 0024, 0026).
